Bridget Giroud focuses her practice on complex civil litigation, representing corporate and institutional clients in a wide variety of business litigation matters, including commercial contract disputes and insurance coverage matters. Her client representation includes researching and drafting legal memoranda and motions, assisting with case management, and attending conferences and hearings.

Bridget received her J.D. from Rutgers University School of Law – Camden, where she graduated with one of the three highest GPAs in her class. During law school, she participated in the Hunter Moot Court competition and served as Research Editor of the Rutgers University Law Review. Bridget was also a teaching assistant for a legal analysis, writing and research course for first-year law students. She served as a summer judicial intern for the Honorable Joseph H. Rodriguez in the U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey and was a member of the summer associate class at Stradley Ronon.
