Daniel Pereira concentrates his practice on bankruptcy, insolvency and related matters. Daniel advises clients on a wide array of issues, including both transactional and litigation matters. Although Daniel primarily focuses his practice on representing creditors, he also has experience representing debtors and other interested parties, particularly foreign debtors, in cross-border insolvency and restructuring proceedings.

Among other clients, Daniel has represented banks and other lending institutions, trade vendors, service providers, commercial landlords and tort claimants. Daniel has appeared in numerous state and federal courts, pursuing, among other things, loan enforcement actions, receiverships and commercial foreclosures, defending and prosecuting preference and fraudulent transfer claims, and handling various other commercial litigation matters in addition to handling numerous out-of-court workouts. Daniel prides himself on developing practical strategies in difficult situations with an eye toward maximizing value for his clients.

Daniel received his J.D., summa cum laude, from Drexel University Thomas R. Kline School of Law, where he was a lead editor of Drexel Law Review and received his B.A. from Pennsylvania State University.

RESULTS

Daniel's experience includes the representation of:
