Nicole Simon is the chair of the firm's alternative funds practice group, a founding member of the firm's derivatives and commodities practice group and an active member of the investment management group. Nicole counsels a diverse group of clients in the asset management industry on the broad scope of traditional and novel regulatory issues and practical considerations relevant to their initial formation and continued operations. She advises investment advisers, registered investment companies, private funds, real estate investment trusts (REITs), business development companies (BDCs) and their boards of trustees/directors on the application and interpretation of the federal securities and commodities laws, often with respect to alternative strategies in the retail fund context and the use of derivatives. Nicole also provides guidance on considerations unique to products structured as interval funds, tender offer funds, funds-of-funds and sub-advised vehicles and regularly assists registered and exempt commodity pool operators (CPOs) and commodity trading advisors (CTAs) in navigating multiple regulatory regimes.

RESULTS

- advised target company special committee on a merger between two specialty finance and business development companies (BDCs) to become the second largest externally managed, publicly traded BDC by total assets
- acting as fund and/or adviser counsel to a number of interval funds and closed-end tender offer funds pursuing alternative strategies, including investments in real estate and underlying private funds
- advising on the structuring and launch of private funds pursuing a multi-asset alternatives strategy involving investments in collectibles, artwork, cryptocurrencies, non-fungible tokens (NFTs), late-stage venture capital, real estate and private credit
- advising on the formation and launch of vehicles structured as REITs, including those registered or planning to register under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (1940 Act)
- providing advice with respect to the merger of six separate non-traded REITs into a single 1940 Act-registered REIT
- acting as independent counsel to the independent directors of business development companies
